

Scholarship Opportunity for Students Interested in Labor and Employment Law

Who is awarding this scholarship?

- The Labor and Employment Section of the Florida Bar

Who can apply for this scholarship?

- Current 2Ls and 3Ls
- Enrolled as a student in a Florida Law School
 - students visiting from an out-of-state school are not eligible
- With a demonstrated interest in Labor & Employment Law

What is being awarded?

- $1000 to one student or $500 split between two equal candidates
- The scholarship check is accompanied by a recognition plaque from the Section
- Reasonable travel expenses can be reimbursed (up to $350) to attend the Section's Award Ceremony & Hall of Fame Induction, held on June 14, 2018 in Orlando, during the Florida Bar's Annual Convention
 - Travel expenses can include one night of conference hotel expense

What must I do to be considered for the scholarship?

- Prepare a cover page that includes
 - Your contact information, school, and year (2L or 3L)
 - Completed & anticipated labor and employment related course work (identifying when courses were taken or will be taken)
 - Relevant professional experience (this can include job/intern placements for the summer of 2018)
 - Your involvement in school organizations (including Law Reviews and Journals) and any pro bono/volunteer activity

In lieu of the above you may submit a resume or CV, which is supplemented with your relevant course work

- A 250-500 word statement expressing your interest in Labor & Employment Law
- Your name should be on each page of your submission
- Your school name MUST be in the subject line of the email sent to laborandemploymentscholarship@gmail.com

When is the applicataion deadline?

- February 1, 2018

When will I be notified?

- April 2018 - Candidates will be selected by the Law School Liaison Committee of the Labor & Employment Section of the Florida Bar and are subject to the approval of each candidate's Law School